F. R. PRATT

Resigns as Master Mechanic at She-tucket Cotton Mill to Accept Much Better Position at Adams, Mass.

Frederick R. Pratt has resigned his position as master mechanic at the Shetucket Cotton mill, to accept a much more lucrative one as mechanical engineer of the Berkshire mills in Adams. Mass The Berkshire mills are next to the largest mill in the New Et gland states. There are over 6,200 i-oms in operation, approximately nine times as many as are in use at the Shetucket milis. Mr. Pratt has the Shetucket mills, Mr. Fratt has signed a five year contract with the Massachusetts corporation. He will draw a much larger salary than he has had here, and it is to be increased each year for the five years. Mr. and Frat came here six months ago. Mrs. Pratt is a niece of the Rev. J. R. Very of the Baptist church, and Mr. and Mrs. Pratt have made many friends in the church as well as among his fel-low workmen, who will miss their genial companionship. All wish them a happy future in their new field. They a o to move next week.
